nith s.000 royal rooters in the huge stands the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon the champion Giants cut the baseball season wide open by whipping the Jersey City d to attract many well known citi-who were hungry for the national pastime and wanted a chance to look over and applaud the old favorites.

Prolonged cheers greeted each Giant he appeared in last year's togs. Man-McGraw had to raise his cap and again, while Rube Marquard, Larry Doyle, Fred Snodgrass and Chief Meyers also received a noisy welcome. But the topher Mathewson, bundled up in a heavy saeater, walked across the field to the just before the fourth inning. The famous pitcher caused such commotion that I mpire Latham stopped play for a w moments. Matty smiled as he bowed the right and left, but he forgot to tip tid. That didn't matter, however, he looked as fine as silk and that was t. Sir Christopher in practice let himself out, probably for the reason that the season is too young.

The diamond was in tip top condition it didn't take long to show that the ants had their speed with them. But way home from Baltimore Friday night, for the Jersey City pitchers, Doescher Stogies. came It was in the last half of the seventh inning, with one down and Wilson on first base when Marquard suddenly hammered a finger breaking grounder toward the left side of the diamond. It looked like a base hit, but Janvin, under full headway scooped the ball with his gloved hand and shot it to Breen in time to force Wilson. A very close decision on the batsman at first base prevented what appeared to be a magnificent double play Janvin also collared a difficult foul ball from Doyle's tat in the eighth mining while sprinting toward the grand stand. Wells and Meyers siso made fine captures of fouls while Deininger's catch of the Big Chief's terrific liner in the fourth inning was a gem.

Doescher, once barred from organized basebail, could not get his southpas work in a smoothly in the first inning. He gave free tickets to Devore and Doyle and the former made the first run of the local season when Snodgrass lined out the first hit, a double barger to left. When the sixth inning began the visitors battery was changed. Mains, one of the tallest pitchers in captivity, went to the hox, and Harry Bemis, the old Cleveland eatcher, put on the mask and wind pad. This combination worked like a charm. Mains, a right hander, had plenty of speed, a wide curve and great control. The only if made off this person was a scratch by Wison in the seventh inning.

Marquard put on steam in the last inning and struck out two of the Skeeters, another going out on a baby roller. Then the fans rolled onto the field to talk it over said watch Matty pick up some sharp grounders from Wilbert Robinson's bat. These Jersey fellows played better ball to-day than any of the teams we met on our way home, said McGraw in a hoarse whisper, for the little imanager is suffering from a heavy cold. The score:

Bert Daniels Pulls Marvellous One Hand Stop-Hal Chase Bewilders on the Bases.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 6 .- The High landers beat the Columbus American Asso-ciation team this afternoon in a crazy As the New Yorks won, the honor of being the more demented probably belongs to Columbus. Pitchers were bombarded as fast as they came forward to take their medicine, for it was a game of slashing hitting, with the Highlanders wielding their Warhop and McConnell. Warhop had next to nothing and was wild in the bargain. He hasn't had much work lately, which may account for his inefficiency. McConnell was not only plastered with much venom. but received some shaky support, from Dolan principally.

The lead seesawed from one side to the other. This Columbus aggregation can hit the ball on the proboscis and in addition is This Columbus aggregation can hit a scrappy galaxy. The New Yorks were still scrappier. It was a seething conflict. In the earlier part the Highlanders lost runs by poor work on the bases. Chase was caught napping twice, no doubt for the first times in his life, and Wolter once tried to steal standing up. If he had condescended to hit the dirt he would have been safe.

latter part of the game, made possible two of New York's runs and harried the locals into wild throwing, which also helped the Gotham cause. A great one handed catch by Daniels shut off a couple of Columbus runs which were brewing, and all told the game was full of raggedness leavened by swift fielding and also full of uncertainty and heckling of the umpires. The New are a peevish fighting crowd.

The Highlanders started out with a three run lead. They were dormant in their first inning, but pounded out five hits for three runs in the second and third innings, Dolan, Street, Cree and Hartzell doing the hitting . Warhop passed three hostiles in the first inning, but got by unscathed. He was liberal again in the third, granting two passes, and was larruped for two singles triple and a double. Five locals scooted nome, and the home team increased its Then it was bang, biff and boot for the remainder of the game. One Doak was ever-lastingly flogged by the New Yorks, but one McConnell was thumped merrily by the home team. McConnell would have the home team. McConnell would have done better, however, but for poor fielding behind him. He helped win his own game with his hitting, while Street, his battery partner, batted four runs across.

The home team tied the score in the seventh nining and came within one of tying it again in the eighth. The Highlanders drey away again in the nint on McConnell's single and Chase's home run. Then Columbus, with one out, slugged Long George for three singles in a row and had two on bases with one out when the next batter hit into a soft to home run and McConnell was just able to atagger home ahead of Chase. He didn't have time to mend his breathing apparatus before he had to go to the box, and that was why he was maltreated as he was in the ninth. Some of the New Yorks' playing to-day would land them in ninth place in the American League pennant race, but on the other hands such hitting as they did would win the pennant for them.

Mamager Wolverton has released Outfielder Osborn and Pitcher Martin to the Rochester club. The New York club has an optional agreement on Martin, who is a promising pitcher. Zinn, who has been with the second team, will probably join the Highlanders at Toledo on Monday as an extra outfielder.

CARDINALS CHAMPIONS OF ST. LOUIS AGAIN

Browns Fall Only After Nervy Resistance-Jimmy Austin and Steinfeldt in Fist Fight.

W. L.

St. Louis, April 6 .-- The Cardinals won back the city championship to-day from the Browns by capturing their fourth game, score 9 to 7. In the sixth inning a fight was started by Harry Steinfeldt, the former Cub star, trying to "come with the Cardinals, and Jimm; Austin of the Browns. This pair had i out around third base, with Austin get-ting all the better of the argument. The Cardinals were in the midst of a big batting rally. Mitchell had been just knocked off the mound, and Barney Pelty, who relieved him, was getting hit almost as hard.

and third, Bresnahaff singled to right, Evans scoring from third. Mike Mowrey, who had been on second, also started nomeward, but reutrned to third when Pelty intercepted the throw at the plate The Browns tried to catch Bresnahan be tween first and second, whereupon Mow-rey again started for home. Stovall shot ball high to Austin, who leaped into the air and barely touched the ball with his finger tips. It rolled into foul terri-tory. While Austin was extended on his toes reaching for the ball Mowrey slid back and acidentally knocked Austin down. In falling Austin straddled Mow Steinfeldt, who was coaching on third, pushed into and tried to pull Austin off Mowrey. Steinfeldt was not any too careful in the way he handled Austin, who Whereupon Austin scrambled to his feet and punched Steinfeldt. Steinfeldt hit back, and the pair were at it hard when the police ran out and stopped the bout. Umpires Johnstone and Egan walked over to the scene of the battle, and after deciding that no harm had been done sent the athletes to their positions and the game was resumed. Steinhe had no right to butt in on the playing Fitzclarence

The Browns gave the Nationals a good run before taking the count, and in the seventh inning forced Bresnahan to bench Pitcher Steele and call for Bob Harmon. None of the pitchers trotted out by either side could twirl good ball, but the Browns' trio proved to be the worst. The Cardinals hammered the shoots of Mitchell, Pelty and Baumgardner all over the big park. Steele was good for three innings and then he weakened, the Browns scoring one run. Steele pitched two fairly goods rounds in the 'fifth and sixth, and then blew up higher than a kite and nad to be taken out. Harmon wasn't hit so hard, but he was wild.
